Milton in the Rear View

As we begin to head south here is a final list of cell numbers to check with one another to see who has run out of bullets, needs extra rum or is just plain lost. Also, there will be a cook out at Bones & Wench Annie's on Saturday night. Bring a meat of your choice and the grog of choice.

Wrap your Pole

We need to get the city of Mill Town to where it looks something like Christmas. The discussion about wrapping lamp poles with lights and garland is till alive. I can't imagine going through Christmas with those embarrassing little Walmart elves hanging from a couple of lamp poles. SO, if we can't organize anything before early December several of us will probably head out with good intentions, find electric Tony and begin to decorate regardless of jail time. This should be exciting!

Yes, a Fire Truck

So far, we have had a heck of a time getting the pirate ship to get on a trailer, but the fire truck is another story. Long story short, it's out of the woods, dragged to my shop and the journey to recovery has begun. News at 11.

State of the Pirates

No, we haven't fallen from the face of the earth. Bones came down with the crud and among other things all of our pirately efforts kind of went on hold. Jules has not been able to connect on the trailer so we are still looking. With the Key West attack beginning on the 28th for most and the holidays upon us (and less daylight) we have definitely slowed down – not to mention the Red Neck Parade, Christmas Parade and preparations for the Madi Gras Parade. In addition to that, Bones and Wench Annie are closing on the last of the Riverwalk South property, which means among all this they have to move. But not to worry, we will be back from KW on the 5th of December and probably have a meeting shortly after that to plan our next move.

Oh yea, for those of you who are asking about membership, nothing will officially change until March 1st, 2007, which is the cutoff. If you are confused about this, back issues are posted on the web site.

Caroling with Pirates

Caroling with Pirates will still take place on December 16th. Since we didn't get a conveyance together, it will be about a six-block walk through the historic district. We will probably just knock on doors and unload on unsuspecting folks and small children. If there is no wind, we may do a Johnny Rebel bonfire and toast the River

House before it is demolished. It should be a good night. I'll send out "what to bring" a few days prior.

Chumuckla Redneck Parade

The charming CRP will be held sometime during the first couple of weeks in December. Why do we not know what day? Because the rednecks forget to tell the 500 people from out of town that attend each year. So, just to irritate them, we are showing up again this year. We are running two vehicles this year and will have extra seats for whoever shows up. We are running the 42 CJ-2A and the most wonderful "topless" Festiva (Pirate Taxi). We'll be working on these vehicles on the three days prior to the parade at Bones Elva Street warehouse if you are bored and know how to operate a spray can 'mon over. No skill required here. Oh yea, and if you just drive a crappy vehicle, fill it with people and bring it! PS: This is a PIRATE DRESS opportunity.

Junior Pirate Boat

In negotiation – this could still happen. We'll accept nothing less than free.

Courtyard Bar Now Open

Looking for a place to chill with a great atmosphere? Got a Pirate or a wench that just ain't happy with life? The Courtyard Bar has just opened at Mainstreet Café! Enjoy good food and friends at this great gathering place. The bar is heated and features great hors d'oeuvres. Relax and have your meal there if you like.

"Mainstreet Café, where neighbors meet"

Captain Morgan

- And just one more thing. Captain Morgan has joined our crew and he will be riding in the Pirate Taxi for the Chumuckla Redneck Parade as if he was naturally sent there. He is eight foot tall and is bound to get everyone's attention.

River Tours still happening

The Water-yer-Needs tour boat is still operating on the river. Let your friends who have never been on the river know that now is the time. The river is beautiful in fall. The tour rates can be found on blackwaterliving.com.

Upcoming Pirate Events:

November 30th: is the beginning of "Pirates in Paradise" If you free-up at the last minute and want to come to Key West really bad, call Bones and he will let you know if there is a vacant bed somewhere.

December 1st and 2nd: Christmas on the River BOAT PARADE if you're not in KW.

MID-December: We attack the Chumuckla Redneck Christmas Parade.

December 16th: "Caroling with Pirates". A delightful journey with your beloved pirate crew through the ajoinments of our Mill Town community. Join the Blackwater Pirates as they sing your favorite carols in the streets of Mill Town with a piano they stole from the church. It's a night to remember! December 24th: Christmas Eve, and all is well in the hearts of pirates nationwide.

QUOTE OF THE DAY:

"I can't find my sword, I'll bring the blender."

(Shipmate Thomas as he packs for Key West attack)
